

Passionate inception

Editorial

It gives me great pleasure to announce the Second issue of the Obstetrics & Gynecology International Journal (OGIJ), an international, open-access, peer-reviewed journal for all the areas of Obstetrics and Gynecology. I anticipate this journal will fascinate to readers from an extensive medical and scientific background, from clinicians to nurses, researchers and general practitioners.

OGIJ promotes the publication of high-quality research based on Obstetrics and Gynecological disorders. OGIJ encourages the submission of papers on investigational research in various fields like community obstetrics, family welfare, and also subspecialty subjects including gynecological endoscopy, infertility, oncology, ultrasonography and many other specialized areas. Clinical, research, experimental papers, review articles, short communications, case reports, mini- reviews, opinions, letter to editors etc., on all aspects of basic and clinical research in the fields of obstetrics and gynecology and related subjects will be considered. All articles published in OGIJ will be expertly reviewed by a various and representative group of multidisciplinary researchers and clinicians to promote the publication of high-quality work.

OGIJ is committed to unrestricted online access to peer-reviewed research in which all articles will be available immediately after they have been accepted for publication. According to our open-access policy, authors retain full copyright of their publications.

Publication of an article in OGIJ involves a decent cost that is covered mostly by an article-processing fee. The Processing Fee paid for the articles also covers the amount to be raised for funding the Awards and Financial Support for the researchers. OGIJ believes that article-processing fee should be obtained from grants or from authors' institutions. Therefore the authors, who cannot pay the processing fee, have the option to submit applications for scholarships and waiver on publication fee.

Conclusively, it is my honor to work with an extraordinary team of Associate Editors who will devote their time and expertise to Obstetrics & Gynecology International Journal. I have full confidence on them not only in handling manuscripts, but also to develop this new journal to best serve the Obstetrics and Gynecology community.

I wish to close this second editorial by inviting clinicians and researchers who are devoted their career to obstetrics and gynecological disorders to submit your exciting research and/or clinical findings discoveries to Obstetrics & Gynecology International Journal, and by thanking you in advance for your support as editors, authors, reviewers and information users. I will greatly appreciate your suggestions and ideas for making the journal highly impactful. With your encouragement, together we can build a journal of excellence.
